A message from Mrs Porter

of Reading. Each day, your child brings home a book to read at home. This should be read with you daily, and a note made on their reading record. Thank you to all the carers and parents who are supporting their children to learn and love this valuable life skill. Keep on reading! After half term, your child will be receiving their annual World Book Day token for a £1 book! What better excuse to visit your local book shop and feel inspired!

Why shared reading with children matters

Reading together encourages natural two-way communication. Children listen, respond, ask questions and share their own ideas. Shared reading from an early age supports literacy by helping children understand sounds, rhythm, turn-taking and communication, while strengthening their social skills at the same time!

TAKE HOME

2nd - 8th February

Does seeing yourself in a toy or story help you feel like you belong?

I hope you have all had a good week. You will know by now that 2026 is the National Year of Reading. Each day, your child brings home a book to read at home. This should be read with you daily, and a note made on their reading record. Thank you to all the carers and parents who are supporting their children to learn and love this valuable life skill. Keep on reading! After half term, your child will be receiving their annual World Book Day token for a £1 book! What better excuse to visit your local book shop and feel inspired!

In the news this week

A toy company called Mattel has released a new Barbie doll designed to represent people who have autism, with features such as a fidget spinner and noise-cancelling headphones. The doll was created with help from the autistic community, so more people can see themselves reflected in their toys.

Things to talk about at home ...

- Do you think it's important for toys to show different kinds of people?
- How do you feel when you see a character or toy that is like you?
- Can you come up with other examples of books or toys that aim to help people feel included?
- How can we help other people feel included when they might feel different or left out?

Miss Mullally-Knight and the boys from Badgers hosted staff in their Gratitude Café this week. They wrote invitations to individual staff members, stating what they were grateful to them for. These included, "being someone to talk to" and "being lovely". The children prepared a varied three course menu for staff to choose from. Their service was impeccable! They were all polite and helpful, for which we were very grateful! Mrs Porter left a generous tip of coins for the wonderful waiters (edible coins of course)!
